EX-MAYOR CRUMBO RECOMMENDS PE-RU-NA.

"My Endorsement of Pe-ru-na is Based On Its Merits." -Ed. Crumbo.

ED. CRUMBO, Ex-Mayor of New Albany, Ind., writes from 511 E. Oak street:

"My endorsement of Peruna is based on its merits. " If a man is sick he looks anxiously for something which will cure him, and Peruna will do the work. "I know that it will cure catarrh of the head or stomach, indigestion, head-ache and any weary or sick feeling.

"It is bound to help anyone, if used according to directions.

"I also know dozens of men who speak in the highest terms of Peruna and have yet to hear of anyone being disappointed in it."

Mr. Crumbo, in a later letter, dated

Aug. 25, 1904, says:
"My health is good, at present, but if I should have to take any more medicine I will fall back on Peruna."

FAMILIES A GENERATION AGO. SHYEST PEOPLE EVER KNOWN. Seemed to Think More of Real Essentials to Happiness. It isn't often that a mother goes back to the threshold of her own married life for the benefit of her own children When she does she may tell them that "When I married your father he made $12 a week and he did not have any nest egg in the bank. He had been taking care of his moth er and sister and the marriage of your aunt made our union possible. had hardly a stick of furniture at the start, and it almost seemed as though you three older children were babies all together."

But somehow these little families of a generation or so ago managed, for they loved each other. They worked and they did not have the foolish ideas about keeping up appearances that play such an important part and work such havoc in homes

If the mother is the kind that is not ashamed of the simplicity and perhaps poverty of her early beginnings as a matron, she will endeavor to impress ideas of economy and truth upon her girls and also the paramount one that money is not essential to happiness but that the love of a good man and a quiet place called home are.-Chicago Journal.

Disraell's Picturesque Metaphor.

Few men had a richer talent for vivid picturesque metaphor than Disraeli. Often, no doubt, it was bizarre, and sometimes even tawdry, but it seldom descended to the cheap. And what could be more vivid than the figure by which he pictured one of the Gladstonian Ministries: "The Ministers remind me of one of these marine landscapes not very unusual on the coast of South America. You behold a range of exhausted volcanoes. Not a flame flickers on a single pallid crest. But the situation is still dangerous. There are occasional earthquakes, and ever and anon the dark rumbling of the sea."

Ammonia For Mosquito Bites. In hot climates, where mosquitoes abound, it is usual to carry a tiny bottle of ammonia in the pocket, which is fitted with a little glass point on the stopper, and, as soon as the enemy has worked his wicked will, the bottle is produced and a drop of the liquid is applied to the spot. The same beneficial effect is found from treating the stings of midges with ammonia, and it is useful to know of a harmless and effectual remedy for Potatoes and Leprosy. It took three centuries to dissipate the impression that potatoes, which were first brought to Europe in the fifteenth century, are responsible for the perpetuation of leprosy.

HIGH CLASS DRUGGISTS

The better class of druggists, everywhere, are men of scientific attainments and high integrity, who devote their lives to the welfare of their fellow men in supplying the best of remedies and purest medicinal agents of known value, in accordance with physicians' prescriptions and scientific formula. Druggists of the better class manufacture many excellent remedies, but always under original or officinal names and they never sell false brands, or imitation medicines. They are the men to deal with when in need of anything in their line, which usually includes all standard remedies and corresponding adjuncts of a first-class pharmacy and the finest and best of toilet articles and preparations and many useful accessories and remedial appliances. The earning of a fair living, with the satisfaction which arises from a knowledge of the benefits conferred upon their patrons and assistance to the medical profession, is usually their greatest reward for long years of study and many hours of daily toil. They all know that Syrup of Figs is an excellent laxative remedy and that it gives universal satisfaction, and therefore they are selling many millions of bottles annually to the well informed purchasers of the choicest remedies, and they always take pleasure in handing out the genuine article bearing the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of every package. They know that in cases of colds and headaches attended by biliousness and constipation and of weakness or torpidity of the liver and bowels, arising from irregular habits, indigestion, or over-eating, that there is no other remedy so pleasant, prompt and beneficial in its effects as Syrup of Figs, and they are glad to sell it because it gives universal satisfaction.

immense demand for it, imitations have been made, tried and condemned, but there are individual druggists to be found, here and there, who do not maintain the dignity and principles of the profession and whose greed gets the better of their judgment, and who do not hesitate to recommend and try to sell the imitations in order to make a larger profit. Such preparations sometimes have the name—" Syrup of Figs"—or "Fig Syrup" and of some piratical concern, or fictitious fig syrup company, printed on the package, but they never have the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of the package. The imitations should be rejected because they are injurious to the system. In order to sell the imitations they find it necessary to resort to misrepresentation or deception, and whenever a dealer passes off on a customer a preparation under the name of "Syrup of Figs" or "Fig Syrup," which does not bear the full name of the California Fig Syrup Co. printed on the front of the package, he is attempting to deceive and mislead the patron who has been so unfortunate as to enter his establishment, whether it be large or small, for if the dealer resorts to miscopresentation and and deception in one case he will do so with other medicinal agents, and in the filling of physicians' prescriptions, and should be avoided by every one who values health and happiness.

Knowing that the great majority of druggists are reliable, we supply the immense demand for our excellent remedy entirely through the druggists, of whom it may be purchased every-where, in original packages only, at the regular price of fifty cents per bottle, but as exceptions exist it is necessary to inform the public of the facts, in order that all may decline or return any imitation which may be sold to them. If it does not bear the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of every package, do not hesitate to return the article and to demand the return of your money, and in future go to one of the better class of druggists who will sell you what you wish and the best of everything in his line at reasonable prices.

Kubus of Sumatra Never Talk With a Stranger. There is a very singular race of people in Sumatra, the Kubus, who are too timorous and shy to mix with the other races of the island, and iwell in the recesses of the forests.

They are looked on as inferiors by the Malays, and thought to be little better than beasts. Such is their shyness that they will never willingly face a stranger.

Their trade with the Malayans is consequently carried on in a strange manner. The trader announces his arrival by beating a gong, and he then retires. The Kubus approach, put their forest treasures on the ground, beat gong, and retreat. The trader returns, and lays his commodities down in quantities sufficient, as he thinks, for the purchase of the goods on sale. Then he retires, and the Kubus reappear and consider the bargain.

And so, after more withdrawals and approaches and gong beatings, the respective parties come to an under standing, and carry off independently their bargains.

The Kubus live on snakes, grubs, fruits and the flesh of any deer or pigs they can slay. They are skilful spearmen, and throw stones with mar velous accuracy.—Stray Stories.

Yet in those three minutes he journeyed from New York to Port Said, transferred himself to St. Peters burg, loitered in Paris and London and sailed up the Nile. What is of greater importance in this connection he journeyed leisurely, almost indo lently; he stopped at various "points of interest" and examined them thor oughly; he met with annoying and amusing experiences on steamships and trains; he talked with acquaint ances whom he encountered in foreign lands, and he told some of them precisely what he thought of themthere was genuine pleasure in that. "When Chief Justice Chase was presiding in one of the country courts of Vermont an appeal case from a justice's court came up before him so small and contemptible in its origin that he ordered it stricken from the docket. The case was where a turkey had trespassed upon the garden of a neighbor and got shot for its depredations. The owner brought suit to recover damages, and, failing before the justice, had appealed the case. Judge Chase was angry, and when he ordered the case from the docket said:

"'The lawyer who consented to appeal this case ought to be thrown from the window of the courtroom. Why didn't he have the case referred to some of the honest neighbors for settlement? 'Because, your honor, retorted the attorney, getting hot under the collar, 'it was our intention not to let honest people have anything to do with it.' "True, this was a neat retort, but it cost the lawyer just an even $50 for

The Very Idea!

You women who complain because your dear, innocent hubbles make you carry in the coal, shovel snow off the walks, do the washing, scrub the floors, beat the carpets and other little bits of exercise, while they are downtown laboriously whirling around in a pivot chair, smoking cigars and winking at pretty girls, ought to be thankful you do not live under the Hindu laws, where the holy books forbid a woman to see dancing, hear music, wear jewels, blacken her eyebrows, eat dainty food, sit at a wincow, or view herself in a mirror during the absence of her husband; nor allows him to divorce her if she has no sens, injures his property, scolds him, quarrels with another woman or presumes to eat before he has finished his meal .- Denver News.

How to Stop Gossip.

There are two words, simple enough in themselves, that introduce untold trouble into the world and are responsible for more gossip, scandal and harm than any other two words in the English language. These two little words are nothing more than "They say." They have done more to ruin reputations than any other thing. If you never quote what "they you may be quite certain you are not a gossip. But if you find your self telling your friends at all times what "they say," and at the same time lifting your eyebrows and shaking your head, you may rest assured you are saying something the world would be better for not hearing.-Exchange.
